

The Transnational Repression Project

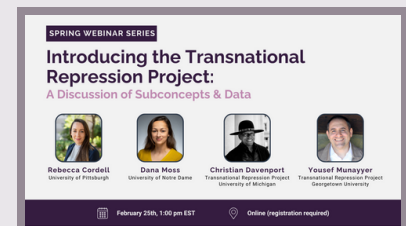

Spring 2025

SPRING WEBINAR SERIES

Thank you to everyone who joined us on February 25th for our first webinar, “Introducing the Transnational Repression Project: A Discussion of Subconcepts & Data,” with panelists Christian Davenport (TRP), Yousef Munayyer (TRP), Dana Moss (University of Notre Dame), and Rebecca Cordell (University of Pittsburgh).

A recording of the webinar is now available on our YouTube page.

◆ WEBINAR #2: Transnational Repression and Non-State Actors

We are excited to announce that our second webinar, “Transnational Repression and Non-State Actors,” will be held on May 27th at 1 pm ET. We will be sharing additional details and a registration link for this event soon.

WORKSHOP

Are you an emerging researcher in the field of transnational repression? One resource the TRP seeks to provide is mentorship for younger scholars doing research on transnational repression. If you would like to present your work and receive feedback from scholars in the field, please fill out the interest form below and we can arrange for an interactive workshop with discussants. This is an opportunity to present your research and receive constructive feedback from experts. This unique experience allows participants to refine conceptual and methodological approaches, enhance presentation skills, and connect with the broader academic community in the field.

Please complete the form to register. We will be in touch after reviewing the submitted information.

TRP RESOURCE: LITMAPS

Last month, TRP launched our newest online resource – three interactive literature maps – a tool for visualizing connections between scholarly articles about transnational repression, based on citations and references. We hope this will help researchers and other stakeholders navigate the research landscape more easily.

The LitMaps will be updated periodically to include publication of new research.
